

Marettimo Island

The Marine Protected Area (MPA) of the Egadi Islands, is the largest marine reserve in the Mediterranean Sea.

SICILY - ITALY

Located off the northwest coast of Sicily Island, it surrounds the Egadi archipelago, including the islands of Favignana, Levanzo, Marettimo and the islets of Formica and Maraone. Established in 1991.

THE VILLAGE

At the north west corner of Sicily, situated in the deep blue waters of the Mediterranean, stands Marettimo, the farthest island and also the greenest and most mountainous of the Aegean archipelago. Marettimo looks like a huge wedge of limestone rock that emerges for more than 650 meters from the sea surface, showing high and massive walls that descend steeply into the blue.

TREKKING

The village is located on the Est part of the island, the typical Mediterranean island with small white and blu houses, with narrow street were either cars an bikes aren't allowed to drive.

The mountain above it offer many footpaths for trekking lover

DIVE POINT

With more than 20 diving points, Marettimo is the perfect island for all the kind of divers, both beginners and experts. All the diving points are easily reachable in a short time. The excellent view is typical of Marettimo sea bottom. In this island full of history and appeal, where wild and uncontaminated nature is the amazing landscape of the small residential zone, time seems to be stopped, even in its sea bottom: made up of a great natural heritage, full of biodiversity and uncommon species typical of Mediterranean sea, and its amazing submerged and at surface level caves.
